

Fire safety training

The Law

Legislation now places legal obligations on both employer and employee.

The Fire Safety Order demands that all staff receive adequate fire safety training by law which must:

“include suitable and sufficient instruction and training on the appropriate precautions and actions to be taken by the employee in order to safeguard himself and other relevant persons on the premises”

Failure to comply is resulting in prosecution of the organisation and the Responsible Person.

The Solution

To appoint the industry leaders in providing fire safety training. Churchesfire’s training packages ensure you comply with your legal obligations – guaranteed!

Course Aims

To equip all individuals with a clear understanding of how to help prevent fire and what to do should it happen. To ensure both employer and employee comply with their legal obligations under current fire safety legislation.
